

Community Breaks Ground on New Police Department

Kyle Knox
Gila River Indian News

The Community broke ground on a new, long-awaited building for the Gila River Police Department (GRPD) on Friday, Oct. 28.

The occasion drew representatives from the architecture firm Titan, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Gila River Courts staff, and Gila River Police officers and staff to help celebrate this milestone for the Community.

The new building site is south of the current GRPD building. It will provide several updated facility features to support the needs of GRPD officers and staff. Some upgrades included increased office space, adequate room for training, a gym, a Community Room, and a healing room.

“We’re so happy to be here today for what is going to be a truly state-of-the-art facility,” said Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis. “This will not only provide adequate space for our law enforcement officers and staff but will also include modern training and equipment needs, but most of all it will help to increase safety across the entire Community.”

The new GRPD building will be the first police department to utilize the innovative federal 105L leaseback program, developed by the Community, to fund the construction.

The Community’s 105L program recently streamlined the completion of Gila Crossing

“One of the things we want to do is ensure we give the police department a chance to be a part of the project development,” said District 6 Community Council

Rep. Anthony Villareal Sr. “This is another milestone for our Community and I’m proud to be a part of this groundbreaking today.” Villareal Sr. also serves on the GRPD Construction Owner’s Team.

GRPD Acting Police Chief William Morago is looking forward to completing the new police department. He said he’s

Get Out The Vote Rallies Draw Candidates to Community

GRIN Staff
Gila River Indian News

The Gila River Indian Community launched a series of Get Out The Vote rallies ahead of the mid-term elections, urging Community members and Native people everywhere to vote on Nov. 8.

The Community hosted the first Get Out The Vote rally on Wednesday, Oct. 19. U.S. Sen. Mark Kelly joined Governor Stephen Roe Lewis at the Governance Center in Sacaton for the first event. Sen. Kelly has visited the Community on multiple occasions and returned once again to encourage everyone to vote this Nov. as he campaigns for re-election.

“Today is our kick-off for early voting and to Get Out The Vote, because we take voting seriously in our Community,” said Gov. Lewis. “This goes all the way back to Peter Porter and Rudolph Johnson, who fought for our right to vote back in 1928 for the right to vote and now we’re building upon our past leaders that sacrificed for that right.”

Gov. Lewis named Ira H. Hayes and military veterans, including Sen. Kelly, as leaders who continue to fight for our rights to vote as citizens today.

Sen. Kelly has made multiple visits to the Community since taking office and has remained a champion of GRIC and all Arizona tribal communities.

“For the last two-and-a-half years, Sen. Kelly has fought for the federal funding that was instrumental in keeping our Community safe like the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law,” said Gov. Lewis. “And now we have the Inflation Reduction Act, that has provided $4,000,000,000 for drought relief in the region.”

“Elections matter and when people vote our democracy is stronger, regardless of who you vote for,” said Sen. Kelly. “So I’m encouraging you to get out and vote...thank you for being here to-day it shows your interested in our democracy, voting and please tell everyone you know to vote, it should not be an option.”

Then on Oct. 26, a second Get Out The Vote rally took place at the Sacaton Fairgrounds and featured guest speakers Democratic Gubernatorial candidate Katie Hobbs, U.S. Rep. Tom O’Halloran, and U.S. Rep., and Assistant Speaker of the House Katherine Clark. Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis also addressed several hundred attendees, emphasizing how important it is for Arizona candidates to meet directly with Community members.

“When candidates come to our sacred land here, that speaks volumes,” said Gov. Lewis. “They’re not just speaking from DC, they’re not just speaking from the state Legislature. It’s important for our youth to see this, to impress upon them the importance

AOPPYC Inauguration Ushers in 2022 Cohort

Kyle Knox
Gila River Indian News

On Saturday, Oct. 22, The Akimel O’odham/ Pee-Posh Youth Council (AOPPYC) held its inauguration, in person, at the Huhugam Heritage Center. The event saw new members sworn in, new executive officers taking their oath of office, outgoing members recognized, and guest speakers encouraging them as they began the new year.

Founded in 1988, the AOPPYC is the country’s oldest running Native American youth council. Now in its 35th year, the new executive officers are Ariana Blackwater, President; Junior Pan-cott, Vice-President; Jada Young, Secretary; and Eliana Rhodes, Treasurer.

“My goal for this year is to give the same exciting experiences I’ve had with the AOPPYC, to the youth in the Community and let them know they have a voice and don’t have to wait to be the future leaders of the Community, they can be leaders today,” said AOPPYC President Ariana Blackwater.

oversaw the swearing-in of the new and returning members of the AOPPYC that evening. Judge Pedro-Martinez is also an AOPPYC Advisory Board member.

“The youth council has done a good job keeping our youth vibrant providing activities throughout the pandemic, so today’s an important occasion for us to welcome our new leaders today,” said Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis during his address. “All of the youth throughout the Community look up to you all, you’re serving as positive role models for your peers and I commend you all for stepping up and representing our youth, I’m so proud of you all.”

Former GRIC Governor Greg Mendoza, one of the founders of the AOPPYC, was present as a guest speaker. During this time, Mendoza announced that AOPPYC President Ariana Blackwater would attend the White House Tribal Youth Summit in Washington, D.C., on Nov. 14.

This one-day summit will feature an exciting all-day program with high-level administration officials, special guests, and Native youth from across Indian Country to engage in key discussions, including mental health, wellness, climate change, food sovereignty, education, and more.

Lt. Gov. Antone provided the closing remarks for the event. Lt. Gov. Antone commended the AOPPYC for supporting the Community vaccination efforts and praised their creativity in delivering virtual activities for their peers during the pandemic. “I feel that one of these youth will be a next Council Representative, Chief Judge, Lieutenant Governor, or Governor for the Community,” said Lt. Gov. Antone during her closing remarks. “And I’m grateful to be here tonight to see that we now have a fully armed youth council to carry us forward into the next year.”

Teaya Enos Advances to Assistant Director Position at GRRC

Kyle Knox

Gila River Indian News

After completing the first year of the Gila River Resorts & Casinos (GRRC) Pathways Mentorship and Development Program, Teaya Enos was officially announced to be the Assistant Director of Casino Games for GRRC.

Dozens of the GRRC Executive staff and colleagues joined Teaya for her graduation ceremony on Thursday Oct. 27 at the Top Golf Suites at Gila River Resorts & Casinos—Wild Horse Pass. Enos is from District 1 and has worked in the gaming industry for 25 years serving the majority of that time in public relations.

“GRRC is a 24/7 industry and is the largest generator of revenue for the Community so this work is vital and I couldn’t have done this without my family and friends,” said Enos. “Everyone wants to see you succeed here, which makes it a great place to work and program to be a part of.”

Enos said the program is structured to support her growth and accommodated every step of the way through the first year. But, managing her family life and schedule was perhaps the most significant hurdle over the first year. This was due to working diverse work hours as well as at the various GRRC properties, required by the program.

Enos credits the support of her family and friends who helped her during those times.

Moving into this new position will now allow Enos to advance her industry knowledge. Casino games is one aspect she’s not as familiar with so she’s looking forward to enhancing her repertoire of the Gila River Gaming Enterprise.

“We’re all very proud of Teaya, she loves her Community, loves this enterprise, and has always wanted to do more, and now she will have the opportunity to do that,” said Kenneth Manuel, GRRC CEO. “I’m so very proud to see another member of our Community graduate from this program.”

Manuel is from District 4 and is also an alumnus of the program. He has worked alongside with Enos for many years and praised her commitment to the organization and GRIC.

The GRRC Pathways Mentorship and Development Program offers mentees an opportunity to learn about every aspect of the GRRC enterprise and its departments. Program participants spend one year shadowing different departments that comprise the GRRC operations. At the closing of the first year participants move into a new position in a “concentration” department with GRRC. The new position within that department supports the needs of the Gila River Gaming Enterprise with mentors that cultivate the mentees professional and developmental goals.

For the second year of the program Teaya’s concentration department, Casino Games, will focus on the table games throughout the GRRC. She will begin working alongside the Casino games department leadership and learn more about its operations, employee management, guest relations, games, security, and more.

During her first year she found the experience rewarding. She had the opportunity to see how the entire gaming operations function from facilities and maintenance to gaming and information technology (IT). “IT was the most challenging because I’m not familiar with that world,” said Enos. “But now that I have a better understanding of IT, I now have a greater appreciation for everything they do to keep the operation functioning.”

“Public relations has always been a motivator for me but I’m looking forward to learning, and now being able to talk about, casino games,” said Enos. “In the past I knew of the games but couldn’t really truly talk about the experience of table games, but now in this position I can learn from some experts in the area and I’m thankful for that.”

of voting and giving back to the Community.”

Gov. Lewis also emphasize the critical nature of the 2022 election, which he warns could impact voters’ rights for generations to come.

“We turned out in the highest levels in 2020 and as Governor, I want to make sure that every Community member has the right to vote,” he explained. “Arizona is the epicenter for potential legislation that’s going to hinder and frustrate voting – especially for our Community members and Native Americans. This truly is a battleground for the right to vote.”

The rally also featured music, food, raffles and Get Out the Vote swag. Jr. Miss Gila River 22-23 Eliana Rhodes was on hand doing a live painting exhibition while the candidates spoke to the crowd.

“This election may be the most important election in our state’s history,” said Hobbs, Arizona’s Secretary of State who is now running against Republican Kari Lake in the governor’s race. “We need to make sure that no one sits on the sidelines because there’s so much at stake.”

Hobbs said her office has been working to ensure that tribal communities have equal access to the ballot.

“This election, I’m running for governor, to be governor of all of Arizona and that means representing our 22 tribal communities across the state,” said Hobbs. “It’s critical that they have a voice in our government.”

O’Halloran, a Democrat seeking to return to Congress, said: “The tribal vote is so important. We want to make sure people show up at the polls and show the strength that has been shown over the last two years.”

Miss Gila River 22-23 Kelsey Martinez shared remarks from the youth perspective. “Our responsibility is to be well-versed on the needs of our tribal communities and to be involved in the future course of our government,” said Martinez. “If we do not vote then the hardships of our youth, elders, and past generations may go unnoticed and will continue to trickle down to future generations.”

Martinez said she’s grateful to be part of a Community that motivates and educates its youth, helping them understand the importance and history of voting.

“Native youth between the ages of 18-24 make up a strong and powerful voting force that is often overlooked,” said Martinez.

Tribal Leaders Take Historic Steps to Engage in the Nov. 8 Elections

Gila River Indian News

Following back-to-back forums with Democrat and Republican candidates for office on Oct. 27, leaders from the Inter Tribal Council of Arizona (ITCA) – including Gila River Indian Community Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis – held a press conference calling out Republican candidates for their failure to address tribal issues.

The forums and press conference, held at Sheraton Wild Horse Pass, began with Democrats Adrian Fontes, a candidate for Secretary of State, and Kathy Hoffman, Arizona’s current Superintendent of Public Instruction, addressing tribal leaders from around the state. Currently, 21 of the state’s 22 Native tribes belong to ITCA, established in 1952 to give tribes a unified voice on political and policy issues.

That session was followed by a forum of Republican candidates, including former news anchor Kari Lake, a candidate for Governor; U.S. Senate candidate Blake Masters; and Abe Hamadeh, a candidate for attorney general. The three addressed border issues, Arizona’s fentanyl crisis, and their shared opposition to abortion.

Gov. Lewis asked the candidates about tribal exclusivity for gaming, about the key role played by tribes in addressing the drought and about respect for tribes and their culture, especially given the Oct. 10 racist tweet from a Lake campaign manager, which drew national attention for including an image of a bloody human sacrifice accompanied by the headline “Happy Indigenous People’s Day.”

“That’s a yes, yes and yes,” Lake answered Lewis. “That’s a real easy one. ... We appreciate the contributions and cultures of the tribes.”

Hopi Tribal Chairman Timothy Nuvangyaoma also questioned Lake about the tweet, saying she did not “realize the full gravity of that tweet.” Lake called the online posting the work of a young person on her campaign, saying that “they do stupid things.”

“I can’t control everything they do, but I came down on him very hard and he apologized to me,” said Lake. “With age comes wisdom.

That answer clearly did not satisfy the tribal leaders, who held a press conference after the forums in a nearby ballroom. Those in attendance included Gov. Lewis; Tohono O’odham Nation Chairman Ned Norris; Fort Mohave Tribe Vice-President and President for ITCA Shan Lewis; Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community Vice-President Ricardo Leonard, and Pascua Yaqui Tribal Councilwoman Hermina Frias.

T.O.N Chairman Ned Norris called the GOP candidates responses unacceptable. “You get to a point where you know somebody is feeding you lip service,” he said. “I think there was lip service that was fed to us today.”

Leonard, the SRP-MIC Vice President, said that the Republicans had done their “homework on some things” but questioned their commitment to Native people.

“I don’t know where tribal nations will fit in Kari Lake’s Arizona,” said Leonard, as quoted in Indian Country Today. “I don’t think there is a place.”

Gov. Lewis, who previously had called for Lake to fire Colton Duncan – described by the candidate as the “most important person” on her campaign – over his racist tweet, called Lake’s response at the forum “puzzling and inadequate.”

“With all of us tribal leaders here, it would’ve been more appropriate ... to take the opportunity to apologize directly to show that her actions match her words,” said Gov. Lewis. He added that Lake missed a chance to show that “she truly will respect and defend tribal sovereignty.”

Gov. Lewis Honored at Silver and Turquoise Ball

The Phoenix Indian Center celebrated its 75th annual Silver and Turquoise Ball held in Phoenix on Friday, Oct. 21.

In addition, the event serves as a fundraiser for the organization. On this occasion, they raised over $100,000 for one of the oldest non-profit organizations of its kind, providing services to the urban Indian population in Phoenix.

At the event, Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis received the “2022 Leon Grant Spirit of the Community Award.” Established in 2013, the award recognizes an individual or organization for their service, commitment, and dedication to the betterment of the American Indian community as a whole.

“As you know, leaders can’t do this without the support of our family,” said Gov. Lewis before recognizing his family in attendance that evening. He acknowledged his mother, Willardene Lewis, a past Phoenix Indian Center Board member and one of his strongest supporters.

In the spirit of service, Gov. Lewis said, “Public service runs in my family, the late Rev. Roe Lewis, he was committed to service and passed that onto my father, the late Rod Lewis.” Gov. Lewis attributes his family’s public service and accomplishments to instilling those qualities in him.

Gov. Lewis went on to thank the Phoenix Indian Center for the continued support and services they deliver. He cited the COVID testing and vaccination clinics Phoenix Indian Center provided during the pandemic. He marked this milestone as an example of the significant work the Phoenix Indian Center provided to Native Americans at a critical time in history.

“To be here in person for one of the largest most successful Silver and Turquoise Balls, on the 75th anniversary, I’m humbled, proud, and I’m always going to remember this moment celebrating with my family, my relatives, my tribe, and all of you,” said Gov. Lewis.

Throughout the event numerous cultural songs and dances were shared from tribes across the state. The Chi’Chino O’odham Dance Group from District 6 performed a number of songs featuring dancers from the Community.

And this year over 150 individuals contributed items for the silent auction.

The items for auction served as the primary source of donation contributions for the Phoenix Indian Center. Gila River Resorts & Casinos and Community artists Melissa Yazzie and Eliana Rhodes donated items to support the auction this year.

“We’re all excited for the Community Room that will be part of the new building because it will provide a space for the Community,” said Morago. “It will be a place for healing, education, and information and open to the public because we want to be more involved with the Community in a positive

In addition to the new building, Acting Police Chief Morago is also glad to see GRPD return the DRS building to the DRS. He noted that DRS also requires more space, and this move will allow for that.

“I’m so grateful to be here and see that a new police department will come for our police,” said Lt.

Gov. Monica Antone. She recalled her time working with local law enforcement. She remembered the lack of space for inmates and amenities for police officers. “Those were trying times for our Community, but we had to make due, and we did.”

The Tribal Education Department's Culture & Language Program hosted two October social parties that integrated O'otham traditions while exploring self-esteem, creativity, social skills, and building a healthy spirit for youth ages 5-8.

Held at the District 3 Multipurpose Building, the events provided an opportunity to socialize, learn various topics, and become more familiar with the Community over two weekends.

On Oct 8, "Pretty in Pink" was the theme of the girls' event, which featured learning sessions on photography, internet safety, manners, and proper table etiquette.

Former Miss Gila River 2013-14 Lisa Hendricks hosted a "crown-making" session, where the young girls created paper crowns and learned more about the Miss Gila River and Jr. Miss Gila River titles.

The Akimel O'odham/Pee-Posh Youth Council also volunteered for the event.

Then on Oct 15, a superhero-themed event was held for boys. The event featured cape-making, sessions on self-defense, "stranger danger," and bullying provided by the Gila River Police Department.

District 1 Council Rep. Arzie Hogg joined the event, hosting an arts & crafts session with Mikhail Sundust, where they taught colors in O'otham.

As military veterans in the Community, GRIC Council Reps. Avery White and Joey Whitman assisted in the cape-making session, where the young boys cut out and styled a personalized cape for the event.

TED's K-12 Program Manager, Lance Reyna, assisted in coordinating the superhero event and hosted a session where he demonstrated how to make "shegoi pouches" and shared their cultural significance.

Former Lt. Gov. Robert Stone was a guest speaker, sharing memories of growing up in the Community and his educational and career background.

The guest speakers shared some of their backgrounds and roles in the Community to help the young participants gain a better understanding of all the many opportunities they have to look forward to in the future.

TED hopes to continue similar events throughout the Community in the future.

Perez-Pacheco Consulting Announces an Indigenous Business Mission to Arizona in collaboration with The Canadian Consulate

Submitted by Perez Pacheco Consulting

The Government of Canada has established permanent bilateral mechanisms with First Nation, Inuit, and Métis Nation leaders to identify joint priorities, co-develop policy and shift available resources through reconciliation efforts.

As part of their efforts in reconciliation, the Government of Canada -via its consulates in the United States- has invited Native, First Nation businesses to be a part of a delegation to Arizona this coming December 5th through December 7th, 2022. This event will take place at The Arizona Commerce Authority, 100 N 7th Ave #400, Phoenix, AZ 85007.

These First Nation Businesses are diverse in their business sectors, some of which include Agriculture, Beauty, Fashion, Food, and Medicine. The delegation of Canadian, First Nation businesses seeks to develop business ventures with businesses, especially Native-American businesses in Arizona.

Join us for a unique business networking opportunity between Canadian First Nation owned Businesses and the Arizona business community. The Canadian Consulate and Trade Commissioner from San Diego, CA will be hosting workshops, seminars and networking mixers. At this event you will also have the opportunity to match-make with potential business collaborators and learn more about reciprocally opening the Canadian First Nation-owned business market to Arizona's business community.

Do not miss this one-of-a-kind opportunity to build Indigenous commerce between Canada and the US!

TRW Trail of Doom Gathers Thousands for Frightful Time

Kyle Knox
Gila River Indian News

Oct. 26 saw the return of Tribal Recreation and Wellness Programs frightful Trail of Doom at the Mul-Chu-Tha Fairgrounds.

This was the first Trail of Doom since the pandemic and drew thousands of attendees for the Halloween-themed event. Over 4,000 people flooded the fairgrounds to attend this year's Trail of Doom, setting a new record for attendance.

The last Trail of Doom set a record of 3,000 attendees in 2019.

It was a busy October for Tribal Recreation and Wellness as they began hosting numerous events for the Community. Some of those events included the Trail of Doom 5K Fun Run/Walk, Day of the Deadlift, and Glow-In-The-Dark Volleyball tournament. The goal for all of the events is to encourage healthy activity.

"Trail of Doom offers everyone a chance to get their heart rates up whether you're dancing to the music, walking, or going through the haunted maze everything tonight will get your heart going, and that's what we want," said Angel Orque, Program Manager for Tribal Recreation and Wellness.

"The goal of the event is to provide a space for families to come together where they can be active together."

The event treated everyone of all ages to inflatable jumpers for the kids, entertainment stage with music performed by "Gertie 'n' the T.O. Boyz," and a pumpkin patch for families. A new addition for the brave minded was a haunted maze with jumps and scares provided by members the Akimel O'odham/ Pee-Posh Youth Council.

And no Halloween themed event is complete without some candy. A portion of the fairgrounds designated for families to trunk-or-treat featured 32 GRIC programs and departments with booths to distribute candy to all in attendance. Closing out afterward, Orque shared, "The event was made possible by Tribal Recreation and Wellness staff, District 7 staff, District 3 staff, trunk-or-treat booths, and volunteers."

FOOD VENDOR INFO AND REQUIREMENTS

Home-Based Food Vendor

A home-based food vendor (HBFV) is a community member owned food operation who offers food products to the public that have been prepared from home. HBFVs are exempt from food safety standards outlined in the food code and are not inspected by Environmental Health Services. HBFVs are required to display their placard at the location of service. The placard informs the public the vendor is not regulated pursuant to GR-02-12.

You must be an enrolled member of the Gila River Indian Community to apply for a HBFV placard. The vendor must provide proof of enrollment by submitting a copy of their tribal ID card to the Tribal Health Department along with the vendors menu. Once placard is issued, the member will need to obtain a business license and meet all other applicable Community regulations. The vendor is responsible for ensuring all other regulations are met. HBFVs are not allowed to use their placards to offer food products at events in the community. Vendors are required to apply for a temporary food establishment permit application to provide food at a specific event.

Temporary Food Permit

A temporary food permit is a permit that is issued to a food vendor for a specific event in the Community. Vendors must follow the food code safety standards and are inspected by Environmental Health Services.

A vendor must submit a Temporary Food Permit application to Environmental Health Services at least 14 days prior to the event date. The vendor must provide all required information on the application. Once application is received, it will be reviewed accordingly and notice provided to vendor of approval or denial and next steps if approved. Applications are available at the Tribal Health Department or you may contact the Department for an electronic copy to be emailed to you. GRIC employees may also find the application on the intranet.

What Is It?

How do I get it...?

TIPS to Stay In Good Standing

- Do not prepare food or sell if you are ill. Stay home and seek guidance from your healthcare provider.
- Provide appropriate cold holding/hot holding equipment to ensure food is safely stored.
- Handwashing is critical. Ensure all individuals have washed hands before preparing food.
- Ensure kitchen is cleaned and sanitized prior to preparing food.
- Read and follow all requirements of the permit application.
- Food preparation and service area must be kept clean and sanitized.
- All food storage and food preparation must be done inside the booth or unit.
- Handwashing is critical. Ensure all individuals have washed hands before preparing food.
- If a food vendor was not approved by EHS for the event, the vendor will be closed by the Sanitarian.
- Do not prepare food or sell if you are ill. Stay home and seek guidance from your healthcare provider.
- Booth must have one person assigned as the "Person-in-Charge" (PIC) and be present during all hours of operation and inspection.

President Biden and Democrats are delivering for Tribal communities across the country:

- ✓ Making historic Tribal investments in Native language preservation, health care, broadband access, and more.
- ✓ Appointing and confirming the first ever Native American Cabinet Secretary, Deb Haaland.
- ✓ Making Tribal concerns a priority by taking action to address the crisis of missing and murdered indigenous women, strengthening climate resilience, and supporting sustainability.

And Democrats are fighting for more, but they need your help.

Native voters can help keep the momentum going this November by voting for Democrats up and down the ballot.

Make a plan to VOTE this November at IWILLVOTE.com or call our national voter information hotline at (833) 336-8683.
