

Luncheon Honors Purple Heart Recipients

Velia Moncada
Gila River Indian News

The Gila River Indian Community’s (GRIC) Veterans & Family Services Office (VFSO) hosted a Purple Heart Luncheon at the District 4 Service Center on Aug. 7 to honor veterans and family members of deceased veterans with honorary plaques, challenge coins and food provided by Dewski’s Frybread.

The Purple Heart medal, initially created as the Badge of Merit in 1782, is the oldest military decoration and is presented to those that have been wounded or killed in combat. Purple Heart Day on Aug. 7 is a national day to recognize sacrifices made by military members.

“Thank you to all of the veterans for serving our country, for our people, for our families, for our children and for our honor,” said Lt. Gov. Monica Antone in her opening address at the luncheon.

This was the second year that GRIC hosted a Purple Heart Community” event. The Military Order of the Purple Heart – Department of Arizona, part of a national organization for combat-wounded veterans, first recognized GRIC as a “Purple Heart Community” in a ceremony on Aug. 26, 2022.

At the luncheon, the honor bell rang 62 times as the name of each deceased veteran was announced and their families were given Purple Heart challenge coins.

Also, the eight surviving veterans’ names were called and they were given Purple Heart challenge coins as well as wooden service plaques created by Community artist Earleton Lewis.

“I like to see the smiles on the veterans and family members’ faces knowing that they’ve been recognized for their contribution that they’ve given while they were in the military,” said Eric White, VFSO coordinator a U.S. Marine Corps retiree who was a Master Gunnery Sergeant.

White and his team provide 24-hour services to the veterans in the Community. They assist with disability resources and service-connected pension plans and help family members with funeral head markers for deceased service members. “I think this was a good event because it may have given some closure to family members knowing that their loved ones have been recognized as a Purple Heart recipient from the Community,” White said.

TED in-service inspires GRIC educators and administrators

On Friday, Aug. 11, the Tribal Education Department hosted its 19th annual Teacher In-Service titled “Elevate Our Vision & Voice.” The in-service gathers school educators and administrators from across the Community for a day of learnings focused on culture and language, special education, early childhood, social-emotional learning, and more.

Over 500 teachers and administrators registered for this year’s one-day in-service at the Sheraton Grand at Wild Horse Pass.

TED Director Isaac Salcido stated that this year’s theme is a call to action for educators, administrators, and support staff to raise their expectations, dare to see beyond the horizon and speak the truth loudly.

Naomi Miguel, from the Tohono O’odham Nation, served as the keynote speaker for the event. Miguel is the Executive Director for the White House Initiative on Advancing Education Equity, Excellence, and Economic Opportunity for Native Americans and Strengthening Tribal Colleges and Universities.

During her remarks, Miguel highlighted the numerous initiatives the U.S. Dept. of Education is undertaking to ensure American Indian students receive the support required for success. Many initiatives currently focus on bridging the learning divide or pre-pandemic test scores. Recent data demonstrates that, on average, students need an additional four and a half months of classroom instruction to meet those pre-pandemic academic levels.

“They say ‘it takes a village to raise a child,’ and I think it also takes a whole lot of teachers as well, which includes all of you sitting in this room,” said Miguel. “You all have the power to change the lives of our children, and that is an enormous responsibility, but the fact that you’re here learning how to refine your teaching skills speaks volumes about your commitment to our students, community, and our future.”

This year’s in-service program provided educators with several learning tracks designed to give administrators and teachers the tools to enhance their teaching performance and foster the understanding of GRIC culture to maximize their students’ success.

The motivational speaker, educator, and comedian Mitch Factor returned for this year’s in-service. Factor is Seminole and Menominee and has a history of 25 plus years of working within the Tribal Head Start programs and has served as a presenter and speaker for organizations across Indian Country in similar settings.

Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis and Lt. Gov. Monica Antone attended the opening session and shared a welcome address. Both acknowledged the critical role teachers play in the lives of GRIC students and encouraged them to carry on this next school year with compassion and dignity.

“Using water as a metaphor, teachers are leaders, and your leadership ripples out from the students to our villages and districts throughout our Community so I want to thank you all for being here today I hope you all take away something new that inspires you for the new school year ahead,” said Gov. Lewis.

One Way Sky goes unplugged at Heard Museum's First Friday

Velia Moncada

Gila River Indian News

Local Arizonans know that Downtown Phoenix is the best place to join the art scene on the first Friday of the month. Art museums are open to the public past their regular hours and waive the entry fees on that selected day of the month. The Heard Museum also takes part in that model on First Fridays, exposing art enthusiasts to the renowned establishment that contains a mixture of new and old styles of American Indian artistry and history.

On Aug. 4, the Heard's newest installment, "Heard Unplugged," featured the up-and-rising Community four-piece indie-rock band, One Way Sky. The "Unplugged" program featured an artist talk and performance in the Steele Auditorium, allowing the band to perform an array of original music, both electric and acoustic.

Adrian D Thomas,

from District 5, serves as One Way Sky's lead singer and rhythm guitarist. Before their performance, Thomas opened the art talk session inside the museum's area featuring O'otham art in their main exhibit area.

"Me, personally, my journey in music has helped me heal through a lot of trauma that I've experienced in my life," said Thomas to the audience. Thomas also acknowledged the complex life stories woven into the art around him found in the exhibit of O'otham art and basketry. Similarly, he and his band members try to express themselves creatively by incorporating their stories within their music and lyrics.

"Being in this room feels serene, like being among the O'otham and putting our own [Art] piece to the puzzle," said Lomayokva Manuel from District 3. Manuel serves as a vocalist and the bass player for One Way Sky. He mentioned that his music connects him to the O'otham culture because music has always been a critical part of the culture. Manuel also shared that music gives a sense of healing, and the band conveys good medicine to their listeners.

During the artist talk,

One Way Sky band members Cody Bruguier, from the Tohono O'odham Nation, and Manuel shared how they formed their band. "He [Thomas] messaged me, and he's like, 'Yo, you want to jam,'" said Bruguier. Thomas and Bruguier met in high school while learning to play instruments. Bruguier said that, he knew, a group would be formed eventually, given their shared passion for music.

For the rest of the evening the audience enjoyed their performance that showcased One Way Sky's Indigenous influence through a blend of dreamy sounds and thoughtful lyrics. Inside the Steele Auditorium One Way Sky played before a packed audience filled with fans and museum attendees that featured their latest hit, "Indian Route 15." Then rounding out the night they played an acoustic encore within the museum's hallway for a more intimate and closed session.

GRIN attends IJA Media Conference

Velia Moncada

Gila River Indian News

This year the Indigenous Journalist Association (IJA), formerly known as the Native American Journalist Association (NAJA), as of Aug. 11, 2023, hosted their National Native Media Conference in Winnipeg, Canada, at the RBC Convention Centre. The GRIN news staff was fortunate to attend this three-day experience and benefit from what the conference offered. Conference Sessions ranged with various resources to assist journalists working in Indigenous media. The topics covered included newsroom staff wellness and conversations surrounding Indigenous communities, to name a few.

Former GRIN newspaper person Christopher Lomahquahu was recognized at the conference as the second annual Arizona State University's Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Mass Communication, the Native American Journalists Association and ICT fellow. Lomahquahu is attending Arizona State University, pursuing a Master's in Investigative Journalism. With a background in social work, he aspires to empower communities and learn more about how state and federal governments impact Indian Country. "There are a lot of different pathways you can go into with journalism, and it's not just simply writing. Photojournalism and videos, using digital content and tools to tell a story, if you're into that, you can consider journalism as a field of interest," said Lomahquahu.

With technology constantly changing and media advancing simultaneously, the conference provided insightful sessions on how Google tools have transformed research for modern journalists. Indigenous keynote speakers from different media news outlets shared their knowledge and experience covering news in native communities. "We are trying to exist just as people without being radical and just exist as Native People," said Anna McKenzie (Cree from the Opaskwayak Cree Nation) editor, for IndigiNews. In her remarks on newsroom wellness, McKenzie encourages media outlets to decolonize their staff's rules regarding well-being with a more holistic approach in the media age of "reconciliation."

Anchorwoman from ABC News, Charly Edsitty (Navajo Nation), and Jay Alpert, Senior Producer at ABC News Network, hosted an ABC News Storyteller Summit. They facilitated a conversation for journalists on covering Indigenous Communities. Each shared first-hand knowledge and lessons of what it takes, as a writer, to cover stories of every topic. Both stressed the need for journalists to approach and tell their stories in a way that genuinely represents the subject and consider how one might want their own story told as a subject and not only as a journalist. Another critical factor was acknowledging that not all rural communities have access to the internet, so that's another hurdle that might impede a story.

As a journalist, the IJA conference was an experience that has helped transform a staff's perspective on handling topics regarding Indigenous communities and their stories nationwide.

COVID-19 PREVENTION

"Protecting Yourself & Others"

BEING EXPOSED
If you have been exposed to someone with COVID-19 you may have been infected. Follow CDC's recommendations which includes wearing a high-quality mask indoors around others including your household and monitoring your symptoms. Even if you don't have symptoms you could have COVID-19 and spread it to others.

TREATMENT
Seeking treatment if you have COVID-19 and are at high risk of getting very sick. Contact your healthcare provider about treatment options. Start treatment as soon as possible with guidance from your healthcare provider.

PREVENTION

- Get Vaccinated
Staying up to date with COVID-19 vaccines helps your body develop protection from the virus that causes COVID-19.
- Ventilation
Increasing ventilation can help prevent virus particles from indoor air.
- Getting Tested
If you have COVID-19 symptoms you should get tested.
- Stop the Spread
Get tested if you have symptoms, stay away from others.

STAYING HOME
Stay home when you suspect or confirmed COVID-19 from a licensed facility. PCR tests are more likely to detect the virus compared to antigen tests. Even if you don't have symptoms or a recent exposure to COVID-19, testing may help you make informed decisions about your health and your risk of spreading COVID-19 to others.

TAKE ACTION
Mask wearing is made to contain droplets and particles that you breathe, cough or sneeze out. Respirators like the N95 are also made to contain droplets and can also block droplets and particles you breathe. Increasing space and distance will help you avoid being exposed to viruses that causes COVID-19.

Hasa'elith heg Ba:b ch Hu'ul 'To Respect our Elder Males and Females'

Submission by Huhugam Heritage Center

There comes a time in the lives of O'otham when we enter our Golden Years at the age of fifty. Some communities recognize an individual as a senior citizen at the age of fifty-five and are entitled to certain services by their communities. This group of O'otham called Kekel as a group, Keli for an elder male (some prefer Ba:b or Vosk) and Hu'ul or Ka:k for an elder female. There are certain conditions or phrases that are associated with this age group. One phrase often heard concerning our elders is "Ge'e haichu s-amchuth." (To have thorough knowledge of a subject, or multiple subjects). Many elders retain over 80 years of knowledge and life experiences. They are willing to share their life experiences through "Haichu a'aga." (To tell about things, stories of life). One phrase often spoken to younger generations was "Haichu 'o 'e ju: s-pehegim 'o s-hasigam." (You can do things the easy way, or the hard way). This phrase often repeated when taught how to fell a mesquite tree quickly and efficiently. This especially applicable when taught to create a V notch and not a U notch to cut down the tree. Of course, this phrase applied to all other learning situations throughout our lives. This phrase became very important when learning to perform work that involved continuous physical labor such as turning up the soil of our enormous spring garden. One phrase often spoken, as Kekel talk among themselves is "Pi gevkatad." (To not be as strong as they used to be.) There comes a time when we take into consideration and plan our retirement from our careers. The life-changing phrase is "Ha'as chipk." (To quit work-retire.) Over the years and most recently we have witnessed the retirement of many fine O'otham and Pee-Posh whom have contributed a great amount of time and knowledge to their companies, departments and organizations. After retirement some O'otham enjoy what is called "Ahoubad" (To finally get rest, take a break.) When asked what they would do after retirement a few Elders responded with the sentences: "Mañ s-sho:hith mantho ñeithath jiavul wi!" (I like to watch television.) In other words they will be binge watching their favorite programs. Another Elder stated that, "Mañ so:hith hasko me:k eñ pasim." (I like to travel far!) Indeed, they will certainly have the time for it. We encourage you to learn these phrases and use them with your family members. Speak with a Kekel or speaker in your family and learn how to pronounce the phrases, as they might be

Indigenous Peoples Caucus celebrates new Northern Arizona national monument

Submission Arizona House Democrats

GRAND CANYON--Members of the Indigenous Peoples Caucus praised President Joe Biden's long-awaited designation of the Baaj Nwaavjo I'tah Kukveni – Ancestral Footprints of the Grand Canyon National Monument in Arizona. The new national monument will protect nearly 1 million acres north of the Grand Canyon including sacred Indigenous ancestral places, from uranium mining. The designation will also conserve public lands for future generations and protect wildlife and clean water sources. IPC Chairwoman Mae Peshlakai of Cameron, Rep. Myron Tsosie of Chinle and Theresa Hatathlie of Coal Mine Mesa, attended today's event where President Biden officially designated the monument.

"We as Indigenous people have always been connected to Mother Earth, Father Sky, Mother Water and the Sacred Air – we are never separate from it. So, it's about time we are making the country aware that we are faced with crises and contamination from the uranium," said Chairwoman Peshlakai. "We need to protect the sacred elements. We're just happy for the Indigenous people surrounding the Grand Canyon, but for all other people as well, all walks of life, animals, plants. Those are sacred beings themselves. We are now here to protect them. We're so happy the President came out and made it a monument, and we're thankful to all the people who worked so hard, for so long, to make it happen. This is for all people to enjoy the serenity of the Canyon."

Rep. Tsosie said it was a highly emotional experience witnessing the monument's designation, especially after setbacks under the Trump Administration to protect Oak Flat in Arizona and Bears Ears in Utah.

"This sends a message about how the Biden Administration is taking into account sacred lands, sacred sites, our culture and our history so it can pass on to the next generation," Rep. Tsosie said. "Not just here but across the country. This administration, under the Antiquities Act, is using their power to finally give Indigenous voices a place at the table in the White House."

Arizona tribal members seek sobriety, instead find fraud

Emma Hughes

Gila River Indian News

In May, Arizona state and tribal officials addressed the issue of fraudulent Medicaid providers and the exploitation of tribal members through the Arizona Health Care Cost Containment System (AHCCCS).

“For years, these providers have been allegedly defrauding the state millions of dollars while creating a large-scale humanitarian crisis that disproportionately affects Arizona’s tribal communities,” said Arizona Gov. Katie Hobbs. She announced that the Governor’s Office approved a full audit of claims going as far back as 2019 and that AHCCCS has halted payment to over 100 providers.

AHCCCS is the state’s Medicaid program, providing health-care services to low-income individuals. Fraudulent operators have devised schemes to exploit AHCCCS by enrolling Native American patients and billing for services that are either unnecessary or were never provided.

Tribal members are targeted by these residential facilities with promises of food, shelter and treatment for behavioral health or substance abuse. But often, these facilities are unlicensed and unregulated rental homes with sometimes dangerous conditions, including allowing continued drug and alcohol abuse by so-called patients.

These spurious operators have recruited tribal members throughout the state and have coerced some to recruit even more tribal members. They are transported from reservations to the Valley and often placed in unfamiliar locations where they have no way of returning or contacting home.

Many are reported as missing, and the practice is considered modern-day human trafficking.

Lt. Gov. Monica Antone, a member of the state’s Missing and Murdered Indigenous Peoples Task Force, shared how this crisis has personally affected her. Last year in December, she was notified that her niece, who had been missing, was found deceased in the living room of what appeared to be a fraudulent sober living house.

“It took us two days to find her, because what they’re also doing is taking them straight to the mortuary instead of the coroner’s office,” said Lt. Gov. Antone.

Tribal communities have been combating the issue through collaborative endeavors involving law enforcement agencies, tribal governments and health-care organizations.

Several measures have been implemented, including increased scrutiny and enhanced regulation of sober living homes, stricter enrollment standards for AHCCCS providers and improved oversight to detect fraudulent activities promptly.

Following the state’s action to investigate these claims, the Navajo Nation launched “Operation Rainbow Bridge” to address the crisis that has affected and displaced thousands of its tribal members. The website and app include a searchable database of terminated and suspended providers and a “find me” function for displaced relatives to report their location.

Arizona’s 2-1-1 information and referral services program is also available to assist AHCCCS American Indian Health Program members. By calling 211, you can request assistance or report any fraud or abuse by a provider, available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

SCAM ALERT

ATTENTION:

- Community members and individuals from other tribes have reported being approached in the Community by solicitors or recruiters from facilities commonly known as “sober homes” or “group homes.”
- Community members reported being offered transportation to these facilities and once there, they reported having difficulty returning home or contacting their families and falling victim to criminal activities in these fraudulent facilities.

- Shelter
- Transportation
- Other monetary items

Native Ball: Legacy of a Trailblazer to Launch on PBS Affiliates

Award-winning documentary to air nationwide beginning November 2023

Submission
Family Theater Productions

Native Ball: Legacy of a Trailblazer, a film about Blackfeet Lady Griz basketball player Malia Kipp, will launch on PBS affiliates across the United States beginning November 2023. The half-hour film debuted at the Big Sky Film Festival in Missoula, Montana, last February, and is from the Emmy® Award winning producer/director/writer Megan Harrington, who produced The House That Rob Built about long-time University of Montana women’s basketball coach Robin Selvig and his powerhouse Lady Griz team. Malia Kipp blazed a heroic and inspiring trail for other Native girls. Each year in the U.S., nearly 5,000 high-school girls’ basketball players earn a full-ride Division I scholarship. In 1992, Malia was the only Native American to receive the prestigious award. Described by the late chief of the Blackfeet Nation as “a warrior,” Malia faced challenges living in two worlds but carried her burden with resilience, grace, and grit.

“Native Ball is a powerful and poignant film... An inspiration not just to Indigenous youth alone, Malia’s presence breaks through the screen, speaking powerful truths we must consider. My students loved the film and couldn’t stop asking questions or sharing insights,” said Dylan Huisken, 2019 Teacher of the Year, Bonner Middle School, Montana.

Native Ball will also be available to stream via PBS.org or the PBS app beginning November 2023. (Exact date to be determined.) You will be hearing more about Native Ball in October.

To learn more about Native Ball and how to arrange a screening, go to www.nativeball.com

TRIBAL Ready<sup>PBC</sup>

A Native-owned, controlled and governed company.

EMPOWERING TRIBAL COMMUNITIES WITH DIGITAL STRENGTH AND SOVEREIGNTY

DIGITAL EQUITY AND INCLUSION

Our objective is to establish an ecosystem that enables every member of the Tribe to have access to information, education, healthcare, and economic opportunities.

DIGITAL SOVEREIGNTY

Our dedication lies in equipping Tribes with the knowledge and tools required to maintain control over their data and networks.

DIGITAL STRENGTH

Our commitment is to empower Tribes with the resources for deploying high-speed internet infrastructure.

UNLEASHING THE POWER OF DIGITAL CONNECTIVITY FOR INDIAN COUNTRY

Access to high-speed internet is no longer a luxury. It is a right that holds the key to prosperity, connectivity, and self-governance for generations to come.

Time is running out. The direct funding opportunities provided by the Tribal Broadband Connectivity Program (TBCP) are diminishing rapidly.

Why Choose Tribal Ready

- Funding assistance
- Safeguarding sovereignty
- Shaping your digital future

Act Now!

Tribal Ready empowers Tribes to shape their destinies and establish a foundation for prosperity, independence, and growth. Together we will create a future where Tribes flourish in the digital age while preserving their identity, sovereignty, and strength. Let's build a digitally connected Indian Country that paves the way for future generations.

Outreach meetings offer glimpse of the 2024 GRIC Budget

Emma Hughes

Gila River Indian News

The Office of the Governor and Lt. Governor, Office of Treasurer, and Office of Community Manager hosted two budget outreach meetings for Community members.

Two consecutive meetings took place to present the proposed budget for the upcoming 2024 fiscal year, on Aug. 9 and 10, the first at the Multi-Purpose Building in District 1 and the second at the District 7 Service Center.

The last outreach meetings were held in 2019 – before the COVID-19 pandemic, and have not occurred since then.

The FY2024 was presented for the first time by Gary Mix, Community Treasurer since he was appointed to the position in 2022. Mix briefed Community members with an overview of the budget through a PowerPoint presentation while answering any questions and concerns, along with Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis and Lt. Gov. Monica Antone, who also addressed questions from the Community.

Gov. Lewis joins Arizona Gov. Hobbs for signing of SB 1102

Emma Hughes

Gila River Indian News

Gov. Stephen Roe Lewis joined Arizona Gov. Katie Hobbs and a bipartisan group of fellow state, tribal, and local elected officials, business and community leaders for the signing of Senate Bill 1102, which will send Prop 400 to the ballot.

Investments in Prop 400 aim to secure the state's future economic growth by creating hundreds of thousands of jobs and will help expand local businesses.

Arizona Gov. Hobbs stated, "With these investments, Arizonans will have increased opportunities for good-paying jobs, we will have greater resources to invest in things like education, healthcare, and housing, and Arizona will be in a position to be America's economic future. I know it wasn't always easy, but our constituents will be better off because we put partisanship aside and got this done for our state."

A MESSAGE REGARDING FY24 COMMUNITY BUDGET

This afternoon, the Community Council passed the FY2024 Operating and Capital Budget Resolutions, funding our government operations and essential programs. Specifically, I want to highlight that the Council included full annual funding for the Gila River Health Care Corporation to continue the following programs:

Eyeglasses | Hearing Aids | Alternative Therapies

Additionally, the Council also increased the funding for the Dental Orthodontics program. As you may recall these programs were fully funded by Tobacco Tax; however, due to a decrease in Tobacco Tax revenue the programs could not be funded from this source. Thankfully, the Community Council identified funding through savings in other areas of the budget, thus continuing these essential programs.

Governor Stephen Roe Lewis

COVID-19

WHAT DO YOU DO...

...if you were EXPOSED to someone who tested positive for COVID-19?

Start Precautions Immediately

- Wear a high-quality mask any time you are around others inside your home or indoors in public.
- Start counting from Day 1
  - Day 1 is the first full day after your last exposure
- Avoid being around people who are more likely to get very sick from COVID-19.
- Immediately get tested if you begin having any COVID-19 symptoms and isolate.
- Contact your healthcare provider for any questions or concerns.

Continue Precautions for 10 Full Days

- Continue wearing a high-quality mask any time you are around others inside your home or indoors in public.
- Do not go places where you are unable to wear a mask.
- Get tested at least 5 full days after your last exposure even if you don't develop symptoms.
  - If you test negative, still continue taking precautions through day 10.
- Watch for symptoms
  - If you develop symptoms immediately get tested and isolate
- At any time, if you test positive, quarantine and isolate immediately.

*You can still develop COVID-19 up to 10 days after exposure!

...if you test POSITIVE for COVID-19?

- Stay Home
  - Do not go outside of the home until you have completed your quarantine time
- Quarantine
  - Stay inside at home, isolate if possible to avoid getting household members sick.
- Wear a mask
  - Make sure the mask is well-fitted and high-quality, especially if you are around other people (i.e., people in your household).
- Improve ventilation
  - Ensure that there is airflow throughout the home to help prevent the virus from spreading in the household.
- Monitor your symptoms
  - If your symptoms get worse notify your healthcare provider.
- Clean and sanitize
  - Clean and sanitize common household areas/items before and after coming into contact with the infected person.
- Practice good hygiene
  - Continue to wash your hands often and avoid touching your face.

**Quarantine is a minimum of 5 days, and may be extended by your healthcare provider.

...to help PREVENT catching COVID-19?

- Wear a mask
- Physically distance
- Keep areas well ventilated
- Avoid/Limit contact with someone who is ill
- Get vaccinated & Stay up to date with vaccines
- Wash your hands & Avoid touching your face
